Description:
Sierra Máquina massif is integrated into the Subbético system. Magnificent views can be seen from their peaks, especially from the top of the province, the Pico Máquina with 2,167 meters.
Its rugged rock formations and harsh climate have made Máquina a place almost uninhabitable for humans. This has enabled it to keep in good condition. In its small size there is a great diversity of landscapes. It has abundant karstic aquifers that supply countryside of the municipalities on the edge of the park.
